Logo Lockup

Wordmark Logo

Logo Usage Guidelines

Logo Lockup

The logo lockup will be used in most public-facing and corporate communications. It consists of the brand mark, wordmark, and trademark (™) symbol. The lockup is a specially created asset, and its proportions, alignment, and components must not be altered. Do not change the size ratio between the brand mark and wordmark, remove the ™ symbol, or attempt to recreate the lockup.

Wordmark

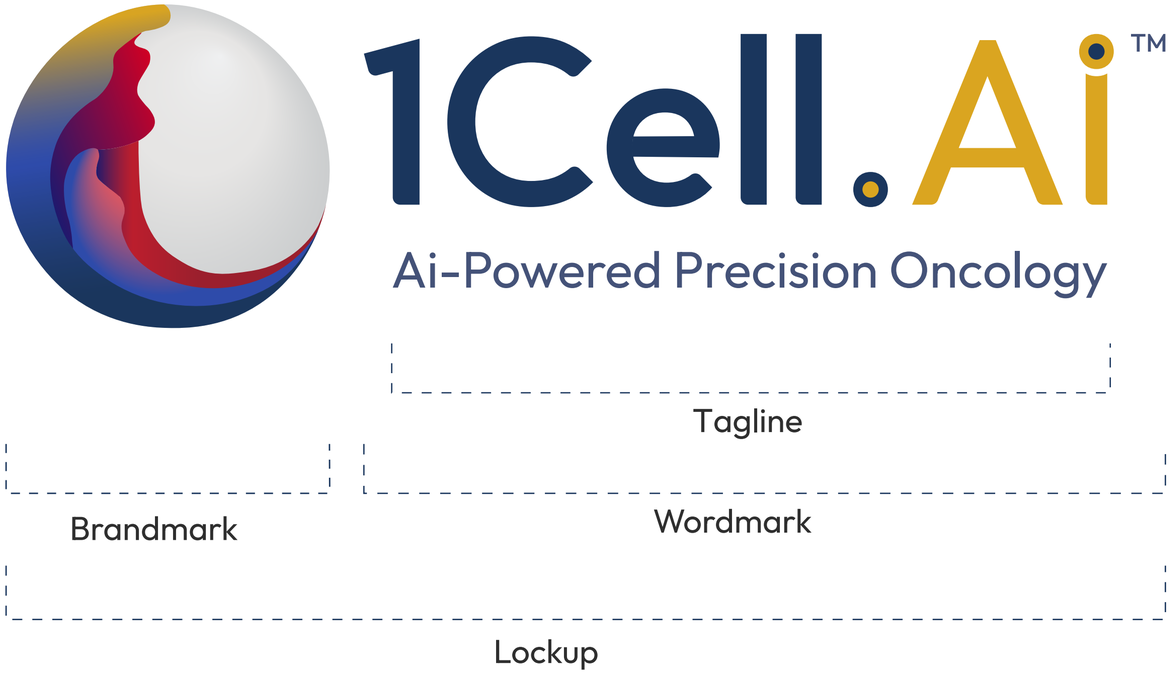

The wordmark may be used independently in specific contexts, such as where product logos are used in same page of lockup, dark backgrounds or situations where space or design constraints make the use of the full logo lockup impractical. In these cases, the wordmark retains its core identity and communicates the brand with clarity.

Lockup vs. Wordmark

The lockup should be used for marketing, promotional, and formal communications. When making single page materials for individual products or sub-brands, the standalone wordmark can be utilized, provided it adheres to brand guidelines.

Trademark/Registered Symbol

The ™ or ® symbol is always included in the lockup for trademark/registration purposes and must not be removed or repositioned. Do not use the tagline, brand mark, or wordmark independently without proper consideration of trademark usage.

General Guidelines

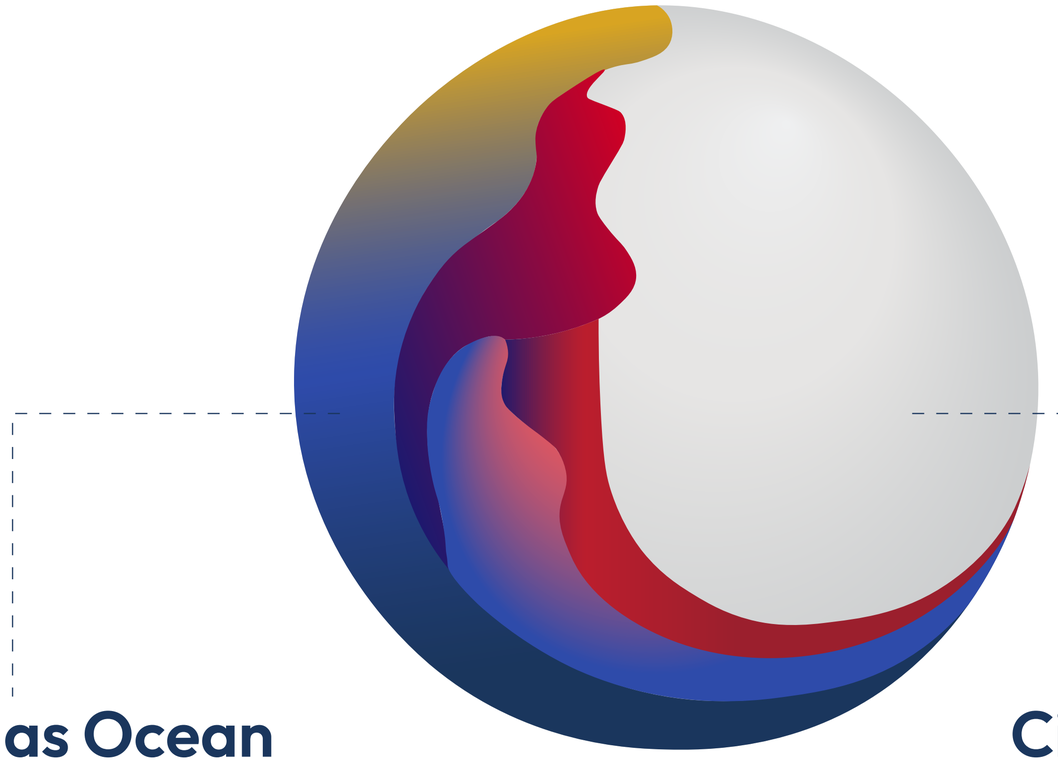

- Ensure the logo lockup or wordmark appears as the only logo within a single viewing pane.
- Always use official assets provided to maintain consistency and integrity of the brand.

Logo Brandmark Design Concept

The idea behind our brandmark was based on a solid foundation that aligns with our work and resonates deeply with our mission. Therefore, we decided to continue with the same brandmark design, as it embodies the essence of our commitment to precision oncology, where:

- The waves symbolize the vast ocean of information (data), representing the depth and complexity of insights we harness through cutting-edge research and innovation.

- The circle represents the cancer cell, signifying our unwavering focus on understanding and targeting the very core of the disease. Together, these elements illustrate our commitment to leveraging data to decode cancer and transform patient outcomes.

Font Pairing Description

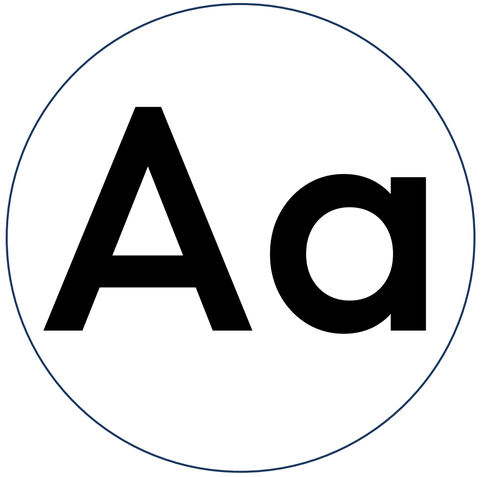

Pairing sans serif and serif fonts creates visual contrast, which helps establish a clear hierarchy in design:

- Heading (Sans Serif): The clean and bold style of sans serif fonts ensures attention-grabbing headings that are easy to scan and comprehend.
- Body Text (Serif): The elegant serifs guide the eye across lines, improving the flow and readability of dense or lengthy text.
- Complementary Contrast: The juxtaposition of the modern sans serif with the traditional serif provides a balanced and dynamic aesthetic, maintaining interest and improving focus.
- Versatility: The combination works across different media (digital and print), ensuring clarity and accessibility for diverse audiences.

This pairing is widely used in editorial designs, websites, and branding to create a polished, professional, and reader-friendly layout.
